

DURING the gang-busting 1930's, J. Edgar Hoover became "Mr. FBI."

Through the years, the FBI was shaped in the image of this man's ideas and ideals. No other agency in the federal government bears the imprint of a single personality as clearly as the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Hoover is the FBI. But his position of strength—and the strength of the FBI—isn't merely a matter of one man's personality. The real secret lies in the fact that Hoover has around him a group of top-flight executives who climbed from the ranks of the FBI's special agents. They came up the hard way, by merit and not as somebody's political pets. Hoover trusted them to make decisions. In turn, these men have repaid the trust with loyalty and fierce pride in the FBI. They accept without question the FBI policy of anonymity. Their names are not widely known beyond the doors of the FBI's Headquarters. And yet they hold in their hands much of the responsibility for the nation's safety.

This inner circle is composed of nine men of whom Hoover has said, "You can't buy the kind of energy and devotion they have given to the FBI."

Hoover's top lieutenants gather each Monday and Wednesday and if need be each weekday at 10:30 A.M. in what is known as "the FBI Executives Conference." The presiding officer is Clyde A. Tolson, who came to the Bureau on April 2, 1928.

A Report to the People" by Don Whitehead*

ENCLOSURE

Tolson is "the man who came to dinner" at the FBI. He intended to stay just long enough to get a little experience and enough money to start practicing law at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where he had gone to business school. Tolson stated his short-term views on the FBI job in his application, causing a stir in the Chief Clerk's Office, which had grown accustomed to having applicants describe their ambitions for a lifelong career in the organization. The unusual letter found its way to Hoover.

"Hire him, if he measures up after the examination and investigation," Hoover said. "He will make us a good man."¹

Several months after joining the FBI as a special agent, Tolson was brought to Headquarters as Chief Clerk, and then he moved up fast. He became an Assistant Director in 1931 and five years later he was named Assistant to the Director. In 1947, Hoover gave him the title of Associate Director—formal recognition that Tolson was the Number 2 G-Man.

Tolson, like Hoover, is a bachelor. The two men have become such close friends over the years that their intimates say they have even reached the point where they think alike. Tolson carries much of the administrative load which Hoover handled himself for many years, and serves in effect as Hoover's chief of staff.

The third man in the line of command is Louis B. Nichols, who handles a tremendous number of chores for the Director in addition to running the Records and Communications Division and representing the FBI in matters not handled personally by Hoover. Nichols is an Assistant to the Director, a title also held by the Number 4 man, Leland V. Boardman.²

Below Tolson, Nichols and Boardman, there are six assistant directors who are the operating chiefs of the Identification, Training and Inspection, Administrative, Domestic Intelligence, Investigative and Laboratory Divisions.³

These men did not reach their positions by being yes-men. They arrived by being willing to accept hard work, make decisions and take on responsibilities while submerging their own personalities in the FBI. They push themselves harder than they do their subordinates. It isn't unusual for them to work twelve or even fifteen hours a day. They do it because there is work to be done—and their work comes first.

In the conference room, each executive is expected to say what he thinks, whether the problem deals with his own work or the work of someone else. But he had better be ready to defend the position he takes, and have his reasons ready. These are strong-willed men and there are, at times, clashes of opinion. In questions of basic policy or in dealing with grave issues, the conference passes the decision on up to Hoover, but always with a recommendation as to what course should be followed. If there is disagreement, an alternative recommendation is also made. And then the decision is up to Hoover.

But when these men walk out of the conference room, they walk out as a team. The decisions have been made and each man knows where he is going and what he is to do. Their shoulder-to-shoulder teamwork is one of the keys to the FBI's reputation for unity and efficiency.

None of these men seems to see anything unusual in accepting anonymity as a part of the job. Any one, or all of them, could leave the organization and go into private industry at a large increase in salary. But they stick to the FBI.

Tolson once explained it this way: "I think most of them stay for the same reason I do. You get something out of working for the FBI that is more important than a pay check."

Another key to the FBI's efficiency is the exacting attention that is paid to small details. A typist who makes a mistake in a word or a number, and anyone else who overlooks the error, has done a sloppy job. Mistakes are never disregarded.

The effort to achieve accuracy in work details is time-consuming and might even be regarded in private industry as a waste of time and energy. But to the FBI, this effort is the essence of doing the job properly. Tolson said: "Precision is the cardinal virtue of an investigating agency. Many a criminal has been convicted, and many an innocent person absolved, because somebody took pains to be accurate about an 'unimportant little fact.'"

to the People" by Don*

Tolson, fifty-six, born in Laredo, Missouri, came to Washington, at eighteen, from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to work as a clerk in the War Department. At nineteen, he was handling routine correspondence for Secretary of War Newton D. Baker. Tolson thought Baker was one of the most brilliant men he ever knew. He once told a friend; "If Baker had been two inches taller, I believe he would have been President of the United States." Baker thought so highly of Tolson he made him his confidential secretary, and for eight years Tolson worked also as confidential secretary to Secretaries of War John Weeks and Dwight Davis. During this time he attended night school at The George Washington University, getting an A.B. degree in 1925 and a law degree in 1927.

CLYDE A. TOLSON
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR
ENTERED ON DUTY 4/2/28
DIRECTOR'S OFFICE

Mr. Tolson earned Outstanding performance ratings for the periods April 1, 1954, through March 31, 1955, and again for the same period in 1955 and 1956. Since then his services have continued at the highest possible level of efficiency and most assuredly he again deserves the rating of Outstanding for the annual rating period from April 1, 1956, through March 31, 1957.

Justification in Support Follows:

The responsibilities of the Bureau have continued to increase during the last year resulting in the assumption of even greater burdens by the top-level executive staff. Mr. Tolson, as Associate Director, has had to shoulder a major share of the increased responsibilities. He has done this in an extraordinarily efficient manner. His judicious handling of his multiple executive duties in directing top-level policy and operations at both the Seat of Government and in the field has been outstanding and has relieved me as Director so that I might concentrate on those responsibilities not susceptible of delegation. Mr. Tolson has meticulously supervised our budget and has tirelessly and constantly directed our planning to insure maximum economy with the highest degree of efficiency. The continuing acuteness of the international situation has meant an even greater increase in the Bureau's responsibilities in the security field thus increasing the Bureau's over-all work load. New legislation and additional programs of the executive branch have also resulted in the necessary assumption of additional obligations by the Bureau. Mr. Tolson has been primarily responsible for the continuous smooth functioning of the Bureau notwithstanding these additional responsibilities. During the past year continued success has been enjoyed by the Bureau in solving cases of national implication such as the Kidnaping case involving the infant Weinberger child, the arrest of Jack and Myra Sobel and Jacob Albam, espionage subjects, and the Obstruction of Justice case in which Victor Riesel was the victim. All of these cases had tremendous ramifications and required adroit top-level planning, supervision and direction from headquarters in Washington. Mr. Tolson played a vital part in the successful solution of each of these cases.

The quality of Mr. Tolson's services during the rating period has even surpassed the high calibre of his services of past years. This is attributable to the additional experience he has gained during his 29 years of Bureau service in top-level executive, supervisory and administrative positions. His value to the Bureau, to the Department and to the entire Government service cannot be measured; however, it can be unequivocally stated that the success realized by the Bureau over the years is due to a substantial degree to the superior capabilities, the selfless devotion to duty and the unerring judgment and acumen displayed by Mr. Tolson in every aspect of his work. His contributions to the efficient functioning of the Bureau cannot be overemphasized. Without the benefit of his keen perception, vast knowledge of the Bureau and its responsibilities, and his self-sacrificing loyalty to his career, the organization would truly suffer. It is a pleasure to recognize his splendid performance by rating it OUTSTANDING.

Dear Clyde:

I want to take this occasion to express to you not only my personal appreciation, but my official commendation for the excellent manner in which the material was prepared for my use in my appearance before the Subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives.

I know the long hours and effort which this entailed upon your part, and, had it not been for your dedicated attitude in the preparation of the material, I would have been faced with an insurmountable problem to become properly prepared for the hearings.

It is again another instance of your loyalty and devotion to the FBI and to me as its Director.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

I am writing an article in which I am devoting a small part to Mr. Clyde Tolson of your department. Frankly, all I have been able to find out about him is what I have read in Who's Who's and similar publications. Unfortunately, this is not quite enough.

Therefore, upon the suggestion of your New York office I am sending along this request. Would you please furnish me with one or two anecdotes concerning Mr. Tolson---that would in no way encroach upon the privacy of the gentlemen or your organization. Some major case, perhaps, that he had a hand in. Or some occurrence that endeared him to you and the department, without, of course, embarrassing him.

May I further explain my position. Although I am a public information officer of the Lighthouse, I am also a freelance writer. For this particular story, I have been assigned by the editors of Pageant Magazine. In the November, 1955 issue of Argosy Magazine, I wrote an article on anti-Communist movements in Rumania. In a forthcoming issue of that same magazine (probably Dec. or Jan.) there will appear under my by-line a story on the methods used by the Russians to get defectors to redact. In other words, I am a great believer in the F.B.I and C.I.A. and as such perhaps you will be persuaded to agree with my request for the anecdotes on Mr. Tolson.

Thank you for your cooperation. May I add that I need the material by the 2d of October to meet Pageant's deadline.

Very sincerely,

Reference is made to your memorandum to the Director dated April 5, 1956, in which it was pointed out that Mr. Tolson was given an OUTSTANDING performance rating for the period from April 1, 1955, through March 31, 1956. His rating was forwarded to the Department to be approved by the Efficiency Awards Committee, and after Departmental approval, Mr. Tolson was to be furnished with the copy of the rating. You also informed that when we received word from the Department of approval of the rating, an appropriate communication would be prepared to Mr. Tolson furnishing him with the copy as well as notification of the Director's approval of a $500 Incentive Award for his outstanding performance.

By memorandum dated April 17, 1956, from Mr. Andretta the Director was advised that Mr. Tolson's OUTSTANDING performance rating had been approved and a copy of the justification should be furnished to him.

As you will recall, authority has been delegated to the Director by the Attorney General to approve cash awards to Bureau personnel in amounts up to and including $500. Awards in excess of $500 must still be referred to the Department for approval of the Committee on Awards. Under the approved table utilized in determining the amount of awards to be given under the Incentive Awards Program, it is felt that Mr. Tolson's services should be classified for the purposes of this award as of major value and broad application, which category justifies an award of from $500 to $725.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

It is recommended

CLYDE A. TOLSON
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR
EOD 4/2/28
DIRECTOR'S OFFICE

For the annual rating period from 4/1/54 through 3/31/55 Mr. Tolson was rated OUTSTANDING. He has continued to occupy the same position and because his work performance has continued at an equal or even higher level of efficiency, he again deserves the rating of OUTSTANDING for the annual rating period from 4/1/55 through 3/31/56.

Justification in support follows:

There have been substantial increases in responsibilities without any increase in the top-level executive staff. Efficient handling of these additional burdens has been possible largely through the outstanding efficiency and extraordinary effort and judgment of Mr. Tolson as Associate Director, including much sacrifice of personal time and foregoing of leave, plus constant planning in the interest of maximum efficiency and economy. Additional delegations of responsibilities to me as Director have necessitated increased reliance upon the Associate Director to administer many of the Bureau's top-level duties and responsibilities in order to relieve me for handling the essential items which cannot be delegated. Increases in our work load have come about through much new legislation, numerous new programs of the Executive Branch, and sustained increasing emphasis on security because of the acute international situation. All of these have created tremendous problems for the Associate Director, who has primary responsibility for top-level budget and personnel matters, training and inspection matters, as well as for screening top policy and procedures covering both the administrative and investigative phases of the Bureau's work. He also coordinates top policy direction of various service units of the Bureau including the Records and Communications Division, the Identification Division and the technical laboratory.

Mr. Tolson's outstanding performance is attributable to a combination of his 28 years of Bureau experience, most of which has been in top-level executive, supervisory and administrative capacities; his extraordinary personal qualifications of perception, judgment, keen understanding, and great interest in public service and the work of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; his selfless devotion and loyalty to his official duties and responsibilities; and his complete awareness of all pending problems, both actual and potential. It is impossible to estimate the value of his services in terms of replacement.

ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR
EOD 4-2-28
DIRECTOR'S OFFICE

During the previous rating period the performance of Mr. Tolson was rated outstanding and he has continued to perform his duties as Associate Director during the present rating period on the same high plane. His performance in every phase of the duties assigned to him has been particularly outstanding.

(A) As Associate Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Mr. Tolson has primary responsibility for determining the needs of the Bureau from a budget standpoint. He has carefully analyzed the various operations of the Bureau in determining the budget limits to be set for these operations. He has consistently displayed an outstanding knowledge and understanding of the Bureau's budget matters.

(B) As Associate Director, he also has primary responsibility for the proper distribution and assignment of personnel. As a result of his exceptional knowledge of the work to be performed in the various field divisions and at the Seat of Government he has been able to assign personnel where their services are most needed. He has also fulfilled his responsibility of assigning executive personnel both at the Seat of Government and in the field in an outstanding manner. This has been possible through his exceptional knowledge of Bureau personnel as well as the needs of the service from a personnel standpoint.

(C) As Associate Director, it is his responsibility to supervise and oversee the Bureau's training and inspection programs. He possesses a keen insight into the Bureau's needs with the result that he has been able to materially assist in the improvement of our inspection and training programs. He has been able to analyze facts presented to him in such a manner that weaknesses and strong points in the Bureau's service are quickly spotted, thereby permitting him to make appropriate recommendations regarding action to be taken. Invaluable streamlining procedures with resultant savings to the Bureau have resulted from his outstanding knowledge of the Bureau's operations.

(D) As Associate Director, he has further responsibility for supervising various service units of the Bureau such as the Records and Communications Division, the Identification Division, and the Technical Laboratory. Even though his other duties have been particularly heavy he has followed closely on developments in these divisions. His superior knowledge of the work and responsibilities of each division has made it possible for him to render extremely valuable assistance in the handling of the work in these divisions.

(E) As Associate Director, he passes on Bureau policy and procedures of the investigative division as well as the administrative and service divisions. He has consistently sought opportunities for improving the Bureau's investigative procedures and techniques and has been able to render invaluable assistance to the Bureau's investigative staff. His ability to analyze facts pertaining to criminal, civil, and internal security investigative matters has been particularly outstanding and he has been able to render prompt decisions and issue instructions concerning such matters in a concise manner. His assistance in these fields has been exemplary and deserving of special recognition.

Throughout the rating period, Mr. Tolson has performed many hours of voluntary overtime service without regard for his personal convenience. He is depended upon by me for valuable assistance at all times.

I rate him outstanding in all phases of his activities.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE DIRECTOR

Last year Mr. Tolson was rated OUTSTANDING on his annual efficiency report and in accordance with the regulations under the Incentive Awards Program, he was given a $500 cash award.

OUTSTANDING efficiency ratings must be approved by the Department and the employee is furnished a copy of such a rating. Under the Incentive Awards Program, an OUTSTANDING rating would be tantamount to sustained work performance meriting an incentive award.

If you desire, we will again prepare the necessary justification for an OUTSTANDING rating for Mr. Tolson and upon its approval by the Department, the necessary justification for an incentive award for $500 will be prepared. An award of $500 is the maximum award which you may approve for an employee in the Bureau. Anything in excess of that would require the Attorney General's approval.

You will recall Mr. Tolson received an Outstanding performance rating covering his services from April 1, 1954 to March 31, 1955 and on April 13, 1955 the rating was transmitted to the Department for the approval of the Committee on Awards. This action was in accordance with the Attorney General's Performance Rating Plan.

In a memorandum from Mr. S. A. Andretta, Administrative Assistant Attorney General, dated April 22, 1955 the Bureau was advised that Mr. Tolson's rating had been approved and that a copy of the rating should be made available to him.

Mr. Tolson in being rated outstanding on each and every aspect of his performance over a one-year period has met one of the standards for a cash award under the new Incentive Awards Program. Based on an evaluation of Mr. Tolson's services as of major value and general application to the Bureau's work he would be entitled to a cash award of from $725 to $1000. In this connection you will recall that authority has been delegated to you by the Attorney General to approve cash awards to Bureau personnel in amounts up to and including $500. Awards in excess of $500 must still be referred to the Department for approval of the Committee on Awards.

Although Mr. Tolson received an Outstanding performance rating last year he was not recommended to receive a meritorious salary increase since the legislation governing such increases was limited to classified employees. The new program covers all employees and officials of the Bureau regardless of grade and salary and there appears to be no reason why his services should not be recognized in the form of a cash award.

For years, he has been top aide to Secretary of War. He served as con- fidential secretary to Secretaries Newton D. Baker, John W. Weeks and Dwight E. Davis for eight years while attending Federal Bureau of Investigation. The job he holds is even more important than the title.

Although a constant compan- ion of his boss, Tolson has de- liberately managed to avoid pub- licity and public notice. Retiring and reserved, he prefers to re- main in the background.

BUSIEST OF MEN

Yet he is one of the busiest and most active men in the gov- ernment. As the FBI's top exe- cutive officer, he supervises the day-to-day nation-wide activities of the G-men and serves as chair- man of the FBI executives con- ference which submits major policy recommendations for Hoo-

MUTUALLY RESPECTED

While in law school, Tolson met Hoover, who had been ap- pointed FBI director a few years previously. Each impressed the other. Their mutual respect de- cided Tolson's fate. In 1928, he became an FBI special agent.

He first was assigned to the FBI's Boston office, then was transferred to Washington head- quarters where he was promoted to inspector in 1929 and to as- sistant FBI director in 1930. Hoover assigned Tolson to ac- company him on special mis- sions. Tolson accompanied Hoover on his arrest of some of the most dangerous kidnappers and bank robbers of the 1930's.

Tolson was made assistant to Hoover in 1938. In 1942, he and Hoover supervised the FBI's round-up of Roger Touhy and his gang, the notorious Detroit kidnappers who escaped from an Illinois penitentiary.

Four years later, Tolson was named the FBI's associate di- rector a title unique in the FBI's history. His associates say he has a photographic memory, sound judgment and the ability to go directly to the heart of the problem.

Tolson has received many ac- colades, but, in FBI circles, the most coveted is this tribute by Hoover:

"I regard him as my strong right arm."

Dear Mr. Cassels:

I thought it was very kind of you to let us see the profile you prepared on Mr. Tolson for a forthcoming issue of Nation's Business Magazine.

From an investigative standpoint, I must say you did a most creditable job in the short period of time which was allotted to you and I thoroughly concur with the many fine things you have to say about Mr. Tolson. He has been my strong right arm and has contributed so much to the development of the Bureau.

With best wishes and kind regards,

Sincerely yours,

In reply to your inquiry as to whether authority exists for you to sign job description sheets as Associate Director in lieu of the existing practice of having such sheets signed by the Director you are advised that such authority does not exist because the Attorney General's order of December 27, 1951, which delegated authority to classify positions to the Bureau expressly stated that "the above delegation of authority is made to you personally as Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation". I do not feel that any effort should be made at this time to secure an additional authorization from the Attorney General permitting the Associate Director to sign these job sheets. For ready reference I am attaching a photostatic copy of the Attorney General's order in question.

I do suggest, however, that instead of having these job descriptions sent to the Director for signature as is presently being done, that we revert to the former practice of having them signed in the reading room after approval in your office.

I therefore recommend that the suggested change be authorized immediately after which arrangements will be made to return to the former practice of having job descriptions signed in the reading room.

I agree

CLYDE A. TOLSON
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR

DIRECTOR'S OFFICE

During the rating period Mr. Tolson has continued to perform his duties as Associate Director in an exceptionally outstanding manner. His performance in every phase of the duties assigned to him has been particularly outstanding.

(A) As Associate Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Mr. Tolson has primary responsibility for proper evaluation of the Bureau's needs budgetwise. He has carefully analyzed the various needs of the Bureau in determining budget limits to be set for the various activities of the Bureau. His understanding of the Bureau's budget needs has been particularly outstanding.

(B) As Associate Director, he also has primary responsibility for proper distribution and assignment of personnel. Through his knowledge of the work confronting the various Divisions at the Seat of Government and Divisions in the field he has been able to assign personnel where their services are most needed. It is also his responsibility to assign executive personnel both at the Seat of Government and in the field. His knowledge of Bureau personnel and the needs of the service is such that his assignments have been outstanding.

(C) As Associate Director, it is his responsibility to supervise and oversee the Bureau's training and inspection programs. He possesses a keen insight to the Bureau's needs with the result that he has been able to materially assist in the improvement of our inspection and training programs. He has ability, through an analysis of the facts presented to him, to spot weaknesses as well as strong factors in the Bureau's service, and to make appropriate recommendations as to action to be taken. Due to his knowledge of the Bureau's operations and an analysis of the facts presented, he has been able to inaugurate streamlining procedures which have resulted in economizing in the Bureau's operations.

(D) As Associate Director, he has further responsibility for supervising various service units of the Bureau such as the Records and Communications Division, the Identification Division, and the Technical Laboratory. Even though his duties have been particularly heavy he has kept himself abreast of developments in these Divisions. He has been able to be of tremendous assistance in the handling of the work in these Divisions as a result of his superior knowledge of the work and responsibilities of each Division.

(E) As Associate Director, he passes on Bureau policy and procedures, not only relating to administrative and service divisions of the Bureau but also those of the investigative divisions. He is continuously alert to opportunities to improve the Bureau's investigative procedures and techniques, resulting in his being able to render invaluable assistance to the Bureau's investigative staff. Mr. Tolson has a faculty to quickly analyze facts in investigative matters, whether they be of a criminal, civil, or internal security nature, and to render prompt decisions and issue instructions in a concise manner. His assistance in this particular phase of the Bureau's activities has been exceptionally noteworthy.

Throughout the rating period, as in past years, Mr. Tolson has rendered long hours of voluntary overtime service. He is depended upon by me for valuable assistance at all times.

I rate him outstanding in all phases of his activities.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

I have learned that Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is presently considering awarding honorary degrees to you and Mr. Tolson at the Spring commencement exercises. This matter is in the initial stages and is to come up for final consideration in the near future. I do not know if the college is considering awarding other degrees at this time or not. I have not been advised of this matter officially by representatives of the college but learned of it from an individual who is friendly with a member of the Board of Trustees.

The above is for your information, and in the event that I receive any inquiry, I will suggest that any communications be directed to you and Mr. Tolson.

I am enclosing a brief outline concerning Coe College, which may be of interest to you.

Sincerely yours,

HISTORY

Cedar College was first organized in 1891 when Reverend Killiston Jones opened a school in his own home for 10 Cedar Rapids young people. In 1893 Mr. Daniel Deussen made a gift of money to Reverend Jones to establish a permanent institution of learning in Cedar Rapids. The first building was erected in 1894 on an 80-acre tract of land which was purchased from the funds obtained from Daniel De.

Cedar College was finally incorporated in 1901 and in 1919 absorbed Leander College of Western Colleges. Since 1907 the college has participated in the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. Because of this relationship with the Carnegie Corporation, the college severed its ties with the Presbyterian Church in 1907 but has maintained an informal affiliation with the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education.

ACCREDITING

Cedar College is a charter member of the National Commission on Accrediting and is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The college also holds a membership in the Association of American Colleges, American Council of Education, Presbyterian College Union, National Conference of Church Related Colleges, the National Collegiate Athletic Association and Mid-Western Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Jack Wilson, of Look Magazine, advised Mr. McGuire that the piece he wrote some weeks ago on Mr. Tolson, Mr. Ladd and myself would appear in next week's issue of Look Magazine, and that since Mr. Ladd is now retiring, Wilson had in mind doing a short newspaper piece rather than a magazine piece for the Minnesota papers on Lee Boardman as Mr. Ladd's successor. Wilson stated that all he would need would be a short paragraph of biographical data for a news item.

I see no objection in this and unless instructed to the contrary, I will furnish this to Wilson.

With regard to the material on Mr. Tolson which was requested by James Donovan of the United Press, the plan we had was to submit the background material as reflected on the attached yellow of Mr. Jones' memorandum to me dated September 8, to Donovan after its approval by your office. This material was sent through to Mr. Tolson and was routed by him to your office. The original was furnished to Mr. Donovan today for his background information on its return to this office. Should Donovan have additional inquiries to make or desire to personally see Mr. Tolson, we will then set up an interview with Mr. Tolson at a time mutually agreeable. Donovan indicated, however, that he felt he had sufficient material on which to predicate a good profile.

Donovan will let us see the copy

James Donovan of the United Press, who covers the building here, has talked to both Mr. McGuire and me about a feature story on Mr. Tolson. In checking the United Press morgue, Donovan found nothing pertaining to Mr. Tolson's personal background and career in the Bureau, and he would like to do such a story for a weekend piece for the United Press and then to utilize it for a magazine article, possibly for a publication like Coronet. Donovan was wondering if there is any possibility of getting background data and he would also like to interview Mr. Tolson to secure such information as he could which would make a good story. He would like personal details regarding Mr. Tolson's background, his activities in the Bureau, etc. I told Donovan that I thought this was an excellent idea and we would see what could be worked out in the next few days.

It would be my recommendation that Mr. Tolson see Mr. Donovan and help him out as much as possible.

Washington, Sept. --(UP)--Ask any schoolboy in America the name of the head of the FBI, and he'll snap back with the answer: J. Edgar Hoover. Everybody knows that.

But ask the same schoolboy--or even some of the most notorious know-it-alls and name-droppers around Washington--the name of the Number 2 G-man, and you're likely to draw the blank look. And the man in question likes it that way.

He is clyde a. tolson, a 53-year-old, Missouri-born bachelor who has been Hoover's top aide for years. Since 1947, he has borne the title of Associate Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Although a constant companion of his famous boss, Tolson has deliberately managed to avoid publicity and public notice. Retiring and reserved by nature, he prefers to remain in the background.

ENCLOSURE

add Tolson washington x x x in the background.

And yet, he is one of the busiest and most active men in the government. As the FBI's top executive, he supervises the day-to-day nation-wide activities of the G-men and serves as chairman of the FBI executives conference which submits major policy recommendations for Hoover's personal consideration.

Tolson was born near Laredo, Mo., on May 22, 1900. He attended Laredo public schools and graduated from Laredo High School in 1915. In high-school, he played first base and pitched for the baseball team, and threw the javelin and sprinted on the track team.

After graduation from High School, Tolson attended business college in Cedar Rapids, Ia. In 1918, he obtained a job as clerk in the office of the Chief of Staff in the War Department here. Two years later, he was made confidential secretary to the Secretary of War.

Tolson served as confidential secretary to Secretaries Newton D. Baker, John W. Weeks and Dwight F. Davis for eight years while attending George Washington University at night. He received his A. B. in 1925 and his LL. B. in 1927.

add Tolson washington x x x 1927.

While in Law School, Tolson met Hoover who had been appointed FBI director only a few years previously. Each impressed the other, and their mutual respect decided Tolson's fate. In 1928, he became an FBI special agent.

Tolson's rise in the FBI was meteoric. He was first assigned to the FBI's Boston office, but ^{Charles Brunette} within two years, he was transferred to Washington headquarters where he was promoted to Inspector in 1929 and to Assistant FBI Director in 1930.

Hoover soon began to assign Tolson to accompany him on special missions, and he was at Hoover's side when the FBI chief personally arrested the notorious Public enemy and bandit, Alvin Karpis, in New Orleans in May, 1936.

Tolson also accompanied Hoover on his arrest of some of the most dangerous kidnapers and bank-robbers of the 1930's, including Harry Campbell, as associate of Karpis; John Henry Seadlund, the kidnapper of Charles S. Ross of Chicago; and Bank Robber Harry Brunette.

jfd more

add Tolson washington x x x Brunette.

1936

Tolson was made the Assistant to Hoover in 1938, and, in that capacity, he and Hoover personally supervised in 1942 the FBI's roundup of Roger Touhy and his gang, the notorious Detroit kidnapers who escaped from an Illinois Penitentiary in 1942. Hoover personally commended him for his courage on that case.

Four years after the Touhy arrests, Tolson was named the FBI's Associate Director--a title unique in the FBI's history. To that post, his associates say, he has brought a photographic memory, sound judgment and the ability to go directly to the heart of a problem.

In his private life, Tolson is a rabid sports fan. He has retained his high school love for baseball and he enjoys boxing and horse-racing. He keeps himself trim and is regarded as a neat, conservative dresser.

Tolson has received many accolades in his life, including the Alumni Achievement Award of George Washington University, but, in FBI circles, the most highly regarded is this one-sentence summation of him by Hoover:

"I regard him as my strong right arm."

Dear Clyde:

Twenty-five years ago today you entered on duty with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. In acknowledgment of this anniversary, I am greatly pleased and honored to extend my warmest personal congratulations, and to present to you on behalf of the Bureau your Twenty-five-Year Service Award Key. I know it would not be possible for me as an individual nor the FBI as an organization to make an accurate estimate of the value of your services over these years, but I do hope you will receive this Key as a symbol of our gratitude and pride which arise from the fact that you have contributed your unusual talents toward the growth and progress of this organization.

It is sometimes customary to offer congratulations "for a job well done." In your case this is not enough. I would face the future tasks to be met with far less assurance if I did not believe that your wise and steady influence would be present to help meet such problems. Your faculty for concise, direct and intelligent action has consistently enabled the Bureau to discharge its many and complex obligations with greater dispatch. In this ever-expanding period of the Bureau's responsibilities, it is a great source of satisfaction to know that your many talents and wealth of experience are near at hand.

The loyalty, faithfulness and intelligence which have accompanied your period of duty serve as a living reminder of the quality of your service. Your complete devotion to duty stands and will continue to stand as an inspiration for us all. I can only hope that this Bureau and our nation will continue to benefit from your unselfish devotion to duty in the years ahead.

With best wishes and kindest personal regards,

Sincerely yours,
